Curriculum vitae

I graduated in 1989 at the Faculty of Law of the University of Padua, under the guidance of prof. Aldo Attardi, with a thesis on civil procedural law entitled "The referral of the case to the first judge", achieving full marks and honors.

I ranked first in the competition for admission to the PhD course in civil procedural law at the consortium with administrative headquarters at the University of Milan (5th cycle), course not completed for entry into the role of researcher university.

I have been a researcher in civil procedural law since 3 March 1993, first at the Faculty of Law of the University of Padua and subsequently, since 28 October 2005, at the Faculty of Law, now the Department of Legal Sciences, of the University of Udine.

I held the teachings of "Civil procedural law I (from the 2005/2006 academic year to the 2016/17 academic year) and "Civil procedural law II" (from the 2007/08 academic year). in the academic year 2016/17) of the Master's Degree in Law.

Subsequently I held the position of "Civil procedural law 1" (from the 2017/18 to 2019/2020 academic year), as well as "Civil procedural law 2" (from the 2017/18 academic year to today) of the Master's Degree in Law.

I am a lawyer, enrolled since 4 September 1992 in the Padua Register, currently in the special list of full-time university professors.
