The social network of the University of Udine
External Policy

The social networks of the University of Udine are channels for disseminating and sharing information, opportunities and news based on our University and are an important opportunity to fully experience the academic community and interact with it.

Social network administrators of the University of Udine monitor and moderate published contents to avoid the presence of inappropriate behaviour, including:

> inciting violence or personal offenses, indecent comments aimed at undermining the reputation of the University of Udine with inadequate language and disrespect towards the University or people; > racist or offensive remarks concerning gender, ethnicity, language, religious belief, political opinions, sexual orientation, age, personal and social conditions; > sharing links to obscene or pornographic websites or links to unsafe websites; > contents of a political, commercial or advertising nature, which are misleading or violate the copyrights;
> misleading or false information; > constructing arguments that are contrary to good taste under the rules of civility and democratic confrontations

Administrators reserve the right to remove content and block users who do not comply with these policies.
